K50 Waterfall

Back to Nature

K50 Waterfall (Hang Én Waterfall) – A Must-Visit Trekking Destination for Nature Lovers and Adventurers.

Nestled deep within the untouched forests of the Central Highlands, K50 Waterfall is an unmissable destination for those passionate about nature and exploration. This breathtaking waterfall is surrounded by ancient forests, where towering trees, tangled vines, and steep 60-degree slopes create a landscape reminiscent of an Amazon jungle adventure. Picture knee-deep swamps, massive earthworms nearly a meter long, and giant ferns forming a lush green canopy above your head.

To conquer the K50 trekking journey, you need a brave heart, strong legs, and an unyielding spirit of adventure. The challenge includes hiking 17km through rugged, mountainous terrain, crossing streams, and navigating dense jungles. But the moment you lay eyes on the waterfall and feel its mist embrace you, your entire body will be revitalized with energy stronger than when you first started the trek.

Come and listen to the water crashing down onto the rocks, trickling through crevices, and singing its own melody deep in the jungle. The enchanting voice of Hang Én, echoing through the forest, calls out to adventurers, luring them to K50. Here, the untouched rainforest thrives in perfect harmony, where ancient trees decay to nourish new life, tiny insects dangle from leaves, and birds and cicadas create a symphony in the golden sunlight filtering through the foliage.

The ultimate reward of this journey is immersing yourself in the crystal-clear, icy waters of the waterfall. Close your eyes and let the soothing sound of cascading water bring you peace. Camp by the falls, catch fish with your own hands, and connect with fellow explorers along the way. And if you're lucky (which happens quite often here), you'll witness a magical rainbow arching beneath the falls, creating a scene straight out of a fairytale.

Join Bi on this adventure—challenge yourself, reconnect with nature, and rediscover who you truly are.

A message from Bi's Founder

One afternoon wandering in the library, I stumbled upon the photo book Mekong Chronicles. The vast river flowing through pristine nature immediately filled my mind. Memories of my childhood in the sunny, windy highlands came rushing back. In that very moment, my heart made a little “ting.” And so, in 2012, Bitour was born.

Ms. Nguyn Ngoc Thu

Master of Sociology – University of Social Sciences and Humanities (HCMC)
Bachelor of International Business – Metropolia University of Applied Sciences (Helsinki)

I started as the first company in Vietnam to organize nature tours for singles, where people could easily “fall in love with the moment.” After leading a trek through Tà Năng – Phan Dũng, I decided to expand Bitour into immersive nature experiences. I realized that in the forest, people connect more naturally.

Watching guests hike nearly 20km through the forest from dawn to dusk, I expected exhaustion. Yet, to my surprise, they seemed more energized, happier, and full of life. That made me reflect deeply.

With a background in sociology, I’ve always been fascinated by how nature impacts human well-being. Growing up in Tây Nguyên, trekking through jungles and rivers was just part of childhood. We were healthy and happy, simply because we lived close to nature. But scientifically, is there a real link between nature and human health, or is it just a feeling?

Determined to find out, I explored studies from Japan, Korea, the U.S., and Nordic countries. The conclusion was clear: nature has measurable, positive effects on both mental and physical health.

This journey brought me back to the East, back to my roots, and back to myself. I realized that humans are, ultimately, part of nature. Most of our struggles come from living against it. Moving to the city, away from nature, I too experienced health issues and inner turmoil.

A message from Bi's Founder

That's why I believe, "When we live in harmony with nature, everything will naturally fall into place."

At Bitour, we are no longer just a company selling adventure trips. We have gone beyond that. Our mission is to help people reconnect with nature so they can live healthier and happier lives.

This journey also led me to Finland—a country I had dreamed of visiting since childhood. Finland, the happiest country in the world, thrives on a lifestyle deeply connected to nature. I experienced this firsthand while living in Helsinki, a capital city seamlessly intertwined with vast forests.

I believe this is just the beginning of a greater journey—one of "traveling to return." A journey that allows my team and me, united by our love for nature, to pursue the things we are truly passionate about.

Travel is not just about visiting places. It's a way to return to our roots, understand ourselves better, and reconnect with nature—so that we can live healthier, stronger, and happier lives.

I sincerely thank all the mentors, partners, colleagues, and customers who have supported and walked alongside Bitour. And above all, I am grateful to my family for their unwavering love.

I look forward to seeing you soon on a journey back to nature, together!
With all my respect and from the bottom of my heart,

Nguyen Ngoc Thu
